

Vehicle questions - Will it rank?

Can I rank it?

What's the process?

Rank your website first, and then you go to prospects.

Q&A 1

Q: How does it work? Do you show me how to build the website and everything?

A: Yes, we're teaching you how to do everything 100 percent. We teach you to build the site upfront, generate leads, and then offer them to businesses, often with a free trial initially.

Q: If you're trying to show a business you have leads, do you run ads first while you build the website? Because if you build a full website and then they say no, haven't you just wasted so much time?

A: No, you're not wasting time because you're building a very generic website. If one business says no, there are other businesses out there that will potentially take the leads. You can ask the business that said no which of their competitors might be interested.

Q: How much is the course? Is the price quoted (6860 after discount) in US Dollars?

A: Yes, that's US Dollars. (Agent then calculates the approximate Australian Dollar equivalent).

Q: If I was to pay in installments, like four installments, how would that work?

A: It'll be just once a month for four months.

Q: When you started this, how long did it take? What happened in your first 12 months? How much time were you putting in?

A: I was putting in about an hour or two a day. Landed my first client (paying $350/month) relatively quickly, which proved the concept. Within a year and a half, I reached $15,000 a month and quit my job.

Q: What support is available if I get overwhelmed or stuck? Will I get help?

A: Yes, we're here to help you. I'm always here. We have a Facebook group where we go live every Tuesday and Thursday for Q&A. You can also connect with other members, including those in Australia.

Q: Being in Australia, since most members are in America, will I feel isolated or be at a disadvantage?

A: You won't be isolated. We have 316 members in Australia alone. There's a ton of opportunity there, possibly less competition than in the US. The model works worldwide.

Q: Is the main way to find clients just cold calling and offering them the leads?

A: Exactly. You don't have to know people; you can straight up cold call, offer value (leads), and sign them up. Prospecting platforms like Yellow Pages or HomeAdvisor (where businesses already pay for shared leads) are also good sources.

Q: Who creates the initial five sites if I pay in full?

A: Our team will build them for you once you decide on the niches.

Q: So, I could pick five different niches, you guys build five different websites, and then it's up to me to rank them and get the clients?

A: Yes, and rank them as well.

Q: How long does it take to get the sites ranked? Like a month or two?

A: Usually about three to five weeks.

Q: Are the websites editable by me?

A: Yes, 100%. They'll be transferred to your account, and you can edit them.

Q: Can you tell me the payment amount in AUD?

A: Eight thousand two hundred forty-four [dollars] seventy-nine [cents] (AUD 8244.79).

Q: Can I pay via bank transfer?

A: Card payment is preferred as a bank transfer might not hit right away, delaying your login access.

Q&A 2

Q: What do you [the agent] do?

A: I do lead generation full-time. I started as a student 7 years ago. I also help ePay and Dan with sales calls, bringing on new students.

Q: Do you do the sales for Epay and Dan, or did you also start as a member?

A: I started doing this 7 years ago as a student. I've only been helping Dan with sales for the last 3 or 4 months.

Q: When you first started, did you study on the side while having a nine-to-five job?

A: Yes, I was a recruiter recruiting software engineers.

Q: How long did it take you to quit the nine-to-five to do this full-time?

A: About a year and a half. We had young children and needed to pay off debt and ensure enough income for a family of five.

Q: At the moment you decided to quit, did you ensure the lead gen income significantly exceeded your day job salary, like two times as much?

A: It was when I was making about $6,000 to $10,000 a month from lead gen that I decided to quit.

Q: Have you been looking at other online business models for a while?

A: Yes, it's been a while. I previously tried dropshipping (terrible margins, fad-dependent) and looked into affiliate marketing and digital agencies but didn't pursue them.

Q: What were the biggest reasons for not joining those other programs (dropshipping, affiliate marketing, digital agency)?

A: Maybe doubt about whether they'd really work, and seeing a lot of competition already in those spaces (digital agencies, dropshipping). Lead generation seemed less common, especially in Singapore, so maybe a better opportunity.

Q: I understand the basics are building a website, doing SEO, ranking it, then striking a deal with a client (per lead cut or monthly retainer) to send them calls/customers. Is there anything else that I'm missing out?

A: No, you have a great idea of it. The key difference is the high margins (around 90% profit) because it's organic, not reliant on ad spend or product costs. We also use a scalable website builder called Snaps.

Q: My current monthly salary is about 5 grand. In a year, do you think it's possible for me to generate that much revenue from lead gen to match my day job?

A: Easily, yes. You could do that working 1-3 hours a night or on weekends. (Agent then provides an example of a couple who replaced their income and quit jobs within 1-2 months).

Q: Can you repeat those figures [about the couple's earnings]?

A: Their first month they made $3,000 upfront, with $1,750 a month recurring after that.

Q: Since I'm in Singapore, should I target my own country, or should I target clients in the US, given your knowledge of that market? What's your take?

A: You can get clients in Singapore using the research methods we teach. However, some international students find it easier to get clients in the US/Canada because businesses there might be more aggressive about growth. It doesn't matter where you are; you can target businesses here in the US.

Q: Do you have members from Singapore?

A: Yes, we have 20 people in Singapore.

Q: How do you track sales from a client? For example, after sending traffic and they call the client, how do you track that activity?

A: Everything is tracked through our phone tracking system (calls, etc.). This is why a flat fee is often preferred; you don't have to meticulously track if every lead closed (like with percentage) or argue if a call was a valid lead (like with pay-per-lead). We cover different monetization models (commission, pay-per-lead, flat fee, hybrid, etc.).

Q: How often do clients ask for exclusivity in their area? Is it common in the US for you to agree not to approach other competing businesses in that same service area?

A: Yes, exclusivity is for a specific geographic area. If a client is in Henderson, I won't serve another competitor in Henderson. But I could serve one in North Las Vegas or another city/state entirely. Businesses want exclusivity, especially compared to shared-lead services like HomeAdvisor, and are willing to pay for it.

Q: How do I get started?

A: (Agent explains the discounted price due to the exchange rate). You pay, I get you your login information, add you to the Facebook group, and you can start the training right away. Most people use a credit card.

Q: Regarding the payment plan, what options do you offer?

A: I can customize it. How much could you put down today?

Q: Would it be possible to do a 12-month payment plan?

A: (Agent calculates) Yes, we can do $488.33 USD per month for 12 months.

Q: Does this mean that every month the $488 (USD) will be charged to my credit card?

A: Yes, sir.

Q: Who is ePay?

A: Epay was one of Dan's students who took the teachings, created a blog, ranked it, and started selling leads to Dan. He essentially turned the training into a lead gen business targeting Dan's own program. He's like a partner now.

Q: Why didn't Dan just have his own website [instead of buying leads from ePay]?

A: Oh, he did. That's how many, including myself, initially found Dan - through his original blog.

Q: How much is your monthly revenue now?

A: A good amount.

Q: Is it like six figures or seven figures [monthly]?

A: No, no, five figures monthly.

Q: Would you say you make double what your previous day job paid?

A: Oh easily. For example, today alone I landed two new clients worth about $3,000 combined (initial or recurring wasn't specified but implied ongoing). I send out close to $20,000 in recurring invoices mid-month.

Q: Is that [invoice amount] upfront or recurring?

A: Recurring. They automatically go out.

Q: I think there's a small error on the payment document's maturity date. It says 01/01/224 instead of 2024.

A: (Agent acknowledges and implies it will be noted/fixed).

3rd Q&A

Q: Is that [owning the asset] what you're talking about?

A: Yes. He [ePay] likes to own the asset itself... so then whenever if they ever leave... he can find just another someone to rent it out.

Q: What does the GK [in the group name Job Killing] stand for?

A: GK stands for Job Killing because it's helped so many people.

Q: Could you clarify what the worksheet's for?

A: The worksheet is so that you can determine if a niche is super competitive or if it's wide open for the taking.

Q: Is that [determining niche competitiveness with the worksheet] within the community itself or just within... just in general?

A: Just in general [for the market you are researching].

Q: The ranking itself, what is that based on?

A: There's like 107 some points that Google looks at. The most important is having relevant, authoritative, well-written content. Your website also needs to look good (aesthetically pleasing). You also build trust with Google through citations (name, address, phone number in directories) and backlinks. We teach you how to do this.

Q: Do they update the videos?

A: Yes, when they need updating they will be updated. Things like the optimizing and build-out sections were recently revamped last year. Things that don't need revamping won't be.

Q: Is there any look to see how that [AI like ChatGPT] can be implemented or do they see how that can affect the industry at all?

A: If anything, it's going to be amazing for us. It's an amazing tool. We can use it for generating unique content ideas for websites. Dan is tinkering around with it to see how we can best implement it.

Q: Do most people [students] make the websites through this platform [Snaps], or is there a way they just make it by themselves?

A: Most people use the platform [Snaps] shown in the training to build the websites themselves.

Q: Do most people use, you know, buy the templates? [Agent clarifies: Do you mean the 'done for you' service?] Yes.

A: The "done for you" is a service where our team builds the website for you for $400. You just give them the niche, location, and template choice.

Q: So it [the template provided in the course/platform] just shows you how it should look and then you do it?

A: Yes, exactly. The templates [within Snaps] are free. You pick one, and that template is then yours to customize following the training.

Q: Realistically, how long does it take to build something like that [a website]?

A: Probably about 20 hours from start to finish, especially in the beginning when you're learning. If you put in about 10 hours a week, you should get through the entire course and have your first website up in about four weeks.

Q: If people ever get stuck, do they like talk to each other, rely on each other? Do they have specific people that they go to?

A: Either or. You can book a call with Sarah (your coach) anytime, especially for niche questions. For general questions, absolutely throw it into the Facebook group. There are about seven active coaches (like myself, Sarah, Ryan, Tyler), Dan's wife Tori, Dan, and ePay all active in the group helping. The coaching and mentoring support is forever.

Q: What would the investment be?

A: The course is $7,860. We offer a $2,000 fast action scholarship if you decide today, bringing it down to $5,860.

Q: How do you guys take payments? Is it possible to split the payments?

A: Most people put it on a credit card. We can definitely split it into payments. If you pay in full (5860), you get four free 'done for you' websites (5860), you get four free 'done for you' websites (5860), you get four free 'done for you' websites (1600 value). If you split it into two payments, you get two free 'done for you' websites.

Q: How many websites do you get [with the split payment option]?

A: Two.

Q: Is there any kind of guidance and training into how to set up the business, you know for LLC or something like that?

A: We don't have specific training inside the course because every state is different. You'll have to gauge if it's worth it based on cost and your assets (like being a homeowner). You can ask in the Facebook group for advice from others in your state (Utah).

Q: At what point do I schedule an appointment with Sarah?

A: I would recommend doing it right after you've filled out a few of those due diligence worksheets [in the third chapter, Survey the Land].

Q: Is she pretty free? Is it going to be an appointment that'll be five days out, three days out, or is it kind of the next day?

A: There are lots of slots available most weekdays. She doesn't take calls on weekends. If none of the times work, you can message her on Facebook to try and find a different time.

Q: Are they having a Vegas kind of convention or whatever this year?

A: I don't know the exact plans, but they are working on content for the next event. Once they're ready, they'll organize it and announce it in the group. You'd purchase tickets, usually a few hundred dollars.

Q: What would be a good benchmark just to make sure I am on pace?

A: Put in 10 hours a week. Focus on understanding the material, especially the due diligence part, rather than just speed. Take your time going through the material.

Okay, here is the Q&A extraction from the fourth transcript:

Q: If you had to explain [the business model] to somebody very briefly, what would you say?

A: Put it in a nutshell, we're lead generators. Our currency is leads. We produce clients for small to medium-sized businesses... It's more akin to digital real estate. We build properties (websites) you control and leverage them for rent (paid for leads). We identify a market (niche/location), build a property (website), and use SEO to drive traffic. We then rent that flow of traffic to a business owner for a monthly fee.

Q: The sites that you build, if you're going to get a company and place them on this site, will they be the only company on the site, or is it a site with other businesses? How does that work?

A: You can do both, but how we teach you is to work on an exclusivity basis, so one site to one company. Directory sites create competition on price, devaluing the leads and hurting business margins, which is why businesses often dislike services like HomeAdvisor.

Q: If I'm a business and you came to me, and I have my own website, can't you guys just optimize my website to come up first rather than your own site and generate the leads? What do you say to that?

A: Yes, we can [optimize your site], however, I rarely tell my clients where I get my leads from... It's my property [the lead gen site]... What you're describing is selling SEO as a service. It's not good for them because SEO guarantees ranking, not necessarily leads... It's much better for us to do it on our own website because we own and control the asset. When they rent leads from us, they have to keep paying, or the leads stop.

Q: Do you have dedicated admins who monitor [the Facebook group] for questions and provide feedback?

A: Absolutely. You'll always get an answer from an admin, mentor, or moderator. It also gets opened up to the rest of the group, and experienced members often jump in to help as well.

Q: What does the program cost?

A: The overall price is $7,860. We have a 'buy it now' price (scholarship) for proceeding on this call, giving a $2,000 reduction, bringing it to $5,860. Currently, that also includes a three-pack of 'done for you' sites built by our developers.

Q: What would the payment structure [be]? Do you have different tiers? How does that look?

A: It's completely flexible and bespoke. We don't have cookie-cutter options. The longer it takes to pay off, the more you'll pay in the long run.

Q: Based on the results that you've seen in the first 90 days, how successful have people been as far as revenue?

A: If you're diligent and take action, inside 90 days, I would expect you to have at the very minimum one client. It depends on how hard you go at it and how many sites you build. I advise starting with 5-10 sites.

Q: Where do you guys promote? How did I find you?

A: We don't do traditional ads (Facebook etc.) because the lead quality is awful. We intercept people like you who are already seriously looking for online business opportunities, often by reviewing other programs/models and presenting this as an alternative. This keeps the quality of our community high.

Here is the Q&A extracted from the fifth transcript:

Q: What's short term look like? Two to three months? Six months?

A: Yeah, up to six months.

Q: Do you choose niches such as like aesthetic clinics or dental practices because they've got a physical property, or do you actually go for niches where a business owner comes out and services?

A: It actually doesn't matter. Every business needs more business. The approach is the same regardless of physical property or service area.

Q: Because of the GMB listing, the actual business owners probably already registered with that, so how would you register a GMB listing if you haven't got a physical property?

A: We never build them with any one particular business in mind; we build them generically (e.g., Dentist in London, not Surinder's Dental Practice). For the GMB, we build and own it ourselves, using methods like virtual offices (carefully selected ones with real street addresses), storage facilities that accept mail, or specific virtual mailboxes to get verified. We hide the address and use a service area.

Q: Wouldn't they be duplicate GMBs then?

A: It'll be a different name, a different phone number, and a different (hidden) address, so no, not duplicates in Google's eyes.

Q: How would you get your postcard [for GMB verification without a physical location]?

A: I use different ways: virtual offices, storage facilities that accept mail and provide a public street address, proper virtual mailboxes with real street addresses and unit numbers, and sometimes even having students receive the postcard at an address.

Q: How many content pages do you build per site?

A: It depends on the niche and competitiveness, but roughly speaking, in low competition areas (targeting populations 50k-350k), about 10 pages.

Q: Is this the training portal that we get? Is this correct?

A: Correct. [Agent then shows the actual student view].

Q: How would you know about the demographics [of a target area]? Would that be in the course?

A: Yes, we teach you how to look into things like median incomes for areas using widely available information through Google.

Q: Is the keyword research on separate portals? Do you have a keyword research tool?

A: We have one in development and use a couple of external ones too. However, we don't rely heavily on search volume for local markets as it's often flawed; common sense and competitor analysis are more important locally.

Q: The website building, is that on WordPress?

A: Our website building is on Snaps.

Q: So Snaps, is that similar to like Weebly and Wix?

A: It's very similar in being a drag-and-drop web builder, but Snaps is proprietary, developed by Dan, with superior SEO capabilities (built on Google Lighthouse) and integrates hosting, SSL, etc., often outperforming competitors.

Q: Could you add outside users as designers to design them [sites on Snaps]?

A: Absolutely. You share the site with them and control their access.

Q: If I wanted to transfer my WordPress website over to this website [Snaps], I can do that?

A: You can't directly transfer; it would require a rebuild. However, the Snaps team is doing free migrations at the minute, where they will rebuild your site on Snaps for you.

Q: Is that migration request ready? Is that [free migration offer] live?

A: Yes, it's free today, it's live.

Q: How long does that take to do the migrate?

A: Depends on the site size and queue, probably anywhere in the two-to-four-weeks bracket. Your current site runs independently with no downtime during the process.

Q: Are these apps [within Snaps] additional costs?

A: Yes, they are, but Snaps gives you credits for every dollar you spend on hosting, which you can use against the cost of these apps.

Q: So I don't need to speak with them [the leads]? Do I live transfer it?

A: No, this all happens through automation. Before you get a client, you can send leads to voicemail to collect details, then pass the info to a business owner. Once they are a paying client, the system auto-routes the live call directly to them.

Q: What would be the name on my bank statement [for the payment]?

A: Avery LLC.

Q: Then tell me the price then?

A: The overall price of the program is $7,860 US dollars. However, at the minute, we build your first five assets [websites] for you with that price.

Q: So how much did you say?

A: Seven eight six zero USD ($7,860).

Q: Is a possible payment plan [available]?

A: Yes, we can do payment plans, customized completely (not cookie-cutter options). Examples: split in two, split in three, or 50% down and the rest over six months.

Q: What if I put in two grand today and then split the remainder over 12 months?

A: Yes, I could do that. It would be $2,000 down today, and then $488.33 per month for 12 months. I'll give you one 'done-for-you' site upfront and another after three payments.

Q: So the five sites [bonus], they're not received straight away, are they?

A: The five sites are reserved for payment in full. Based on the payment plan we discussed ($2k down + 12 months), I will give you one site upfront and unlock the second site after three successful monthly payments.

Q: How long do those sites get done once I start with you?

A: The lead time on building them is typically three to four weeks. However, I highly advise you wait to redeem them until you've done thorough due diligence (research 50-100 markets).

Q: You want the other one [payment plan installments] from a different card?

A: Yes. [Agent confirms setting it up].

Q: What was the Char [you mentioned]?

A: Char is one of the coaches you can book a one-on-one call with via a calendar link. He typically calls you on the phone for a 15-minute check-in after you've gone through the first few modules (like Survey the Land).

Pain points

Okay, here are the pain points expressed by the clients across both calls:

From Call 1 (Benji in Australia):

1. Lack of Location Independence: Wants to work from anywhere, dislikes being tied to a specific work location.
2. Job Dissatisfaction: Works long hours (7 days/week, long days), doesn't enjoy the current job much.
3. Feeling Undervalued/Underpaid: Works hard in his friend's company but the friend makes significantly more; feels replaceable (and was told so).
4. Past Business Failures: Previous online business attempts haven't been successful ("nothing that's really ever taken off").
5. Lack of Knowledge: Recognizes money can be made online but doesn't know how to do it successfully.
6. Desire for Proven Mentorship: Wants to learn directly from people who are actually succeeding with a method.
7. Fear of Wasting Time/Effort: Concerned about building something (like a website) only for a potential client to say no.
8. Concern about Learning Curve/Time: Worries it might be a lot to learn and acknowledges it takes time to see results.
9. Need for Discretion: Doesn't want his current boss/friend (mate) to know he's pursuing this.
10. Desire for Autonomy: Wants to be his own boss and do his own thing.
11. Fear of Overwhelm/Lack of Support: Worried about getting overwhelmed, stuck, and not receiving help.
12. Concern about Geographic Isolation: Feels potentially isolated being in Australia when the main community seems US-based.
13. Financial Risk/Cost Concern: Views the course cost as a significant amount of money and fears not making it back.
14. Frustration with Other Models (Implied): Found lead generation appealing compared to dropshipping which requires more ongoing management.

From Call 2 (Izmir in Singapore):

1. Need for Additional Income: Looking for a side business for an extra income stream.
2. Job Security Concerns: Worried about volatility, potential layoffs ("never know when it's gonna be a last day"), seeking financial stability.
3. Negative Past Experience (Dropshipping): Found dropshipping had "terrible margins," was fad-dependent, and stores could easily die off.
4. Perceived High Competition Elsewhere: Felt other models like digital agencies and dropshipping were already crowded with competitors.
5. Doubt about Other Models: Had doubts about the viability or effectiveness of other online business ideas he explored.
6. Seeking Less Saturated Niche: Attracted to lead generation because it seemed less common/talked about, especially locally.
7. Low Profit Margins in Products/Ads: Frustrated with slim margins in product businesses where ad costs eat most of the profit.
8. Uncertainty about Market Targeting: Unsure whether to focus locally (Singapore) or target the US market.
9. Desire for a Hands-Off Business: Wants a model that can eventually run without his constant intervention ("working on the business rather than in the business").
10. Negative Past Experience (E-commerce Logistics): Found selling physical products (supplements) painful due to groundwork, fulfillment, delivery, customer service, and low margins.
11. Time Constraints: Has limited time due to a newborn and needs a time-efficient model.
12. Cash Flow Concerns: Found paying the full course fee upfront "tough," needed a payment plan option.
13. Disappointment with Previous Paid Group: Had a disappointing experience with a prior (dropshipping) paid group/course.
14. "Shiny Object Syndrome": Acknowledges a pattern of looking at various opportunities, hoping this lead gen model is the "right one" finally.

Pain Points expressed by the client (Brendan) in Call 3:

1. Unsociable Work Hours: Works Japan hours from the US, leading to early mornings and feeling tired ("still waking up").

2. Limited Time with Family: His current 9-to-5 job severely restricts his ability to visit his parents overseas (Tokyo), only seeing them about a week and a half per year. This is a major emotional driver as he's an only child and they are important to him.
3. Desire for Location Independence/Flexibility: Linked to seeing his parents more, he recognizes that his current path (and potentially physical real estate) ties him down geographically. He wants the flexibility to travel and spend more time with them.
4. Desire to "Get Time Back": Expresses a wish to make up for the 10 years he's lived away from his parents.
5. Low Current Salary: Feels his current salary ($55k/year) is insufficient, despite being in the finance industry (customer service side).
6. Desire for Higher Income: Has a clear financial goal to reach $100k annual income, which his current job doesn't provide a clear path towards.
7. High Cost of Alternatives: Found a physical real estate course he liked, but it was very expensive ($12k).
8. Lack of Technical Experience: Has never built a website before.
9. Concern about Technological Changes: Specifically asked about AI (like ChatGPT) and its potential impact on the industry and whether the course addresses it.
10. Concern About Accessing Support: Worried about getting adequate support in a large community, questioning if relying solely on the main figures (like Dan) is feasible.
11. Financial Constraint/Investment Uncertainty: Expressed concern about the course cost and not having enough cash on hand, necessitating payment options.
12. Need for Business Setup Guidance: Unsure about the practical steps of setting up the business legally (e.g., LLC).
13. Need for Clear Expectations/Benchmarks: Wants to know how to gauge progress and ensure he's on the right track, avoiding discouragement.
14. Financial Risk/Pressure: Acknowledges the investment is a "big payment" and feels the pressure to make it work and get his money's worth.

Okay, here are the pain points expressed by the client (Pierce/Steel) in Call 4:

1. Need for Additional/Passive Income: Wants to create another revenue stream, specifically one that is passive.

2. Desire for Scalability and Control: Looking for a business model he can scale significantly and manage himself, where he controls the asset ("no one can snatch the rug from under you").
3. Time/Family Freedom: Wants a business that provides more time with his family and aims for his wife not to have to work.
4. Dissatisfaction with Trading Time for Money: Although earning decent money previously as an IT project manager (and leaving a good job at Morgan Stanley), he dislikes the direct time-for-money exchange inherent in employment.
5. Desire for Entrepreneurship/Autonomy: Wants to "figure it out my way," operate in the internet space, and do something "on my own."
6. High Financial Ambitions: While earning decently before, his goals are much higher (100k–100k–100k–200k/month, ultimately aiming for $1M/month across all streams), indicating current/past income levels are insufficient for his aspirations.
7. Fear/Anxiety about Sales: Explicitly states that the sales aspect makes him "a little nervous" and identifies himself as an introvert who needs to "beef up" sales skills, despite experience as a host/DJ.
8. Concern about Time Management/Commitment: Needs to understand how the program fits into his schedule, especially since he's also working on YouTube automation and music projects.
9. Financial Risk/Cash Flow Concerns: Having just left his job, he is cautious about "burn[ing] through my cash" before generating profit from his new ventures and needs to consider the cost/budget carefully.
10. Uncertainty About Start Time (Due to Finances): His ability to start immediately depends on the cost and the status of his business financing efforts.

Here are the pain points expressed by the client (Surinder) in Call 5:

1. Imminent Loss of Current Work: His primary outlet for SEO work (his wife's aesthetics company) is being sold, meaning he needs a new application for his skills and a new source of income.
2. Desire to Leverage Existing Skills: He has 12 years of SEO experience and wants to find a business model where he can directly apply and monetize this expertise.
3. Need for a Proven/Legitimate Program: He has researched alternatives (Nick Wood, Rank and Rent) and encountered negative feedback or concerns about their quality, depth, and methods (e.g., focus on ads vs. asset building, lack of software, questionable training), leading him to seek a more established and reputable program like Dan/ePay's.

4. Preference for Organic/Asset-Building: Implicitly dislikes the ad-focused model of alternatives and prefers the idea of building and ranking owned assets (digital real estate).
5. Desire for Recurring Income: Specifically stated he likes the recurring income aspect of the lead generation model.
6. Need for Scalability and Control: Wants a business he can scale himself where he is in full control.
7. Desire for Location Independence: Prefers working from home or having the ability to work from anywhere.
8. Practical Concerns about GMB: Questioned how to handle Google Business Profile verification without a physical address for the lead gen sites.
9. Technical SEO Concerns: Asked about potential duplicate content issues when replicating sites for different locations.
10. Budget Constraints/Need for Payment Plan: Immediately asked about payment plan options after hearing the full price, indicating a need or preference for spreading out the investment.

Call 1: Benji (Australia)

- Concern: How does the program work? Worried about the complexity/process.
 - Response: Agent explained the "build first, offer value/leads" model, emphasizing teaching everything step-by-step, including website building.
- Concern: Wasting time building a website if the client says no.
 - Response: Agent explained sites are generic, leads can be offered to competitors, and asking who else might be interested is part of the process.
- Concern: Seems like a lot to learn, will take time to see results.
 - Response: Agent acknowledged the learning curve but emphasized that consistent effort (1-2 hours/night) leads to results, citing personal experience and another student's quick success.
- Concern: Getting overwhelmed or stuck and not receiving help.
 - Response: Agent assured him of support via the agent, Facebook group, live Q&A calls, and the wider community ("family").
- Concern: Feeling isolated being in Australia when the community seems US-based.
 - Response: Agent stated there are 316 members in Australia, the model works worldwide, and there's plenty of opportunity, possibly less competition.
- Concern: The financial investment is significant ("a lot of money"), fear of not making it back.
 - Response: Agent acknowledged the feeling but framed it as an investment with high potential returns, contrasting it with the alternative (staying in the current situation). Offered a discount and payment options.

Call 2: Izmir (Singapore)

- Concern: Uncertainty about whether to target Singapore or the US market due to agent's knowledge base.
 - Response: Agent explained it works anywhere, citing examples of students targeting the US from other countries. Assured him they have members in Singapore (20) and the training covers market research for any location.
- Concern: How to track sales/leads accurately between the website and the client.

- Response: Agent explained the call tracking system and advocated for flat-fee pricing to simplify tracking and avoid disputes over lead quality/closures compared to commission or pay-per-lead models.
- Concern: Cash flow difficulty paying the full course fee upfront, especially with a newborn.
 - Response: Agent offered a flexible 12-month payment plan to make it manageable.
- Concern: Disappointment with a previous paid (dropshipping) group/course.
 - Response: Agent directly promised this program wouldn't be disappointing and emphasized the goal is client success, positioning this as the "last stop."

Call 3: Brendan (Utah, USA)

- Concern: Lack of technical experience (never built a website before).
 - Response: Agent shared their own non-technical background, introduced the user-friendly proprietary website builder (Snaps), and highlighted the step-by-step training and platform support.
- Concern: How the program/industry adapts to technological changes like AI (ChatGPT).
 - Response: Agent framed AI as a beneficial tool for content creation, mentioned Dan was actively exploring integration, and assured him that relevant training videos are updated as needed.
- Concern: Getting stuck and needing support; wondering if relying on main figures (Dan) is feasible with so many members.
 - Response: Agent detailed the support structure: bookable calls with Coach Sarah, the active Facebook group with multiple coaches/admins/peers responding, and the agent's own availability. Emphasized support is "forever."
- Concern: Understanding the investment cost and payment options.
 - Response: Agent clearly stated the full price, explained the $2000 "Fast Action Scholarship" reducing the price to $5860, and offered payment options (pay-in-full with 4 free sites, or split-in-two with 2 free sites).
- Concern: Needing guidance on business setup (e.g., LLC).
 - Response: Agent explained they don't offer specific legal advice due to state variations but suggested asking in the Facebook group for peer advice relevant to Utah and weighing the cost vs. benefit based on personal assets.

- Concern: How to benchmark progress and manage expectations to avoid discouragement.
 - Response: Agent advised focusing on consistent effort (10 hours/week) and thorough understanding, especially due diligence, rather than just speed. Emphasized that success rate varies initially, and even partial success yields significant income.
- Concern: The investment is a significant "big payment," feeling pressure to get value.
 - Response: Agent acknowledged the step, reiterated congratulations, and implicitly reinforced the value and support system available to ensure success.

Call 4: Pierce/Steel (New Jersey, USA)

- Concern: Nervousness about the sales aspect, identifying as an introvert despite public-facing roles.
 - Response: Agent normalized the feeling, contrasted it with their own fear of tech, explained the program includes sales training, and detailed the "Results in Advance" method which reduces sales pressure by providing value (free leads) upfront before asking for payment.
- Concern: Understanding the difference between the program's sites and directory sites like HomeAdvisor.
 - Response: Agent explained the exclusivity model (one client per site/area) prevents price competition and margin erosion common on directory sites, making the leads more valuable.
- Concern: Why not just optimize a client's existing website instead of building a separate lead gen site.
 - Response: Agent explained they rarely reveal the lead source (the site), framing it as owning the asset vs. providing a service (SEO). Selling SEO has drawbacks (client fires you when ranked #1), while renting leads from your asset provides ongoing leverage.
- Concern: Fitting the program into his schedule alongside other ventures (YouTube automation, music) and managing the budget after leaving his job.
 - Response: Agent acknowledged the time/budget constraints and introduced flexible, bespoke payment plans designed specifically to make it work without upfront financial strain, emphasizing the potential ROI from just one client.
- Concern: Uncertainty about starting immediately due to pending business financing.

- Response: Agent offered the payment plan as a way to start immediately without waiting for financing, framing delay as potentially lost income. Offered a specific 12-month plan and a 90-day payoff incentive ($1000 discount).

Based on the transcript, here are the things Steel specifically said he liked or found appealing about the product/program:

1. The Overall Concept: Found it "really interesting" and something he'd "really like to partake in."
2. Freedom & Control: Liked the "freedom of managing it yourself," the ability to "manage that time," have "something work for you," "control it," and know that "no one can snatch the rug from under you like being at a regular job." He summarized this with "I like all of that."
3. Scalability & Potential: Appealed by how it "seems Limitless" and the potential for significant scaling.
4. The "Results in Advance" Sales Method: Found the approach of providing leads upfront before asking for payment "cool."
5. Financial Logic for Clients: Thought the idea that clients pay from the increased profits generated by the leads was "cool."
6. Founder's Authenticity/Energy: Liked Dan's energy based on videos, perceiving him as "genuine."
7. The Core Business Model (Digital Real Estate): Explicitly stated "I like it, I like it" after the agent explained the digital real estate analogy.
8. Exclusivity Model: Found the strategy of providing leads exclusively to one client per area (as opposed to directory sites) "good."
9. Lead-First Approach (vs. selling SEO): Stated "I like it" regarding the strategy of generating leads first and offering those, rather than just optimizing a client's existing site.
10. CallSling Whisper Message Feature: Called the feature where the client hears an alert identifying the lead source "awesome."
11. Snaps Pricing Structure: Liked the clear $15/month cost with no hidden setup fee ("I like that, I like it").
12. Community & Support: Responded positively to the description of the Facebook group, networking opportunities, and support system ("awesome man I love it").

New Features (or Features Described in More Detail):

1. Dedicated Niche Selection Coach (Sarah): While coaching was mentioned, this call specifies Sarah as the designated coach for reviewing the niche research (due diligence worksheets) via bookable one-on-one calls, acting as an accountability partner and safety net.
2. Formalized "Done For You" Services: Beyond just the pay-in-full bonus, it's presented as an ongoing optional service where the team can build a 10-page, optimized website for a set fee ($400) if the student prefers to outsource.
3. Specific Due Diligence Worksheet: A concrete, downloadable worksheet is described as a key tool used during the "Survey the Land" (niche selection) phase to analyze competition.
4. Access to Agent's Personal Cell Phone: The agent explicitly offers their direct cell number for quick questions or support needs.
5. Quantified Pay-in-Full/Split-Pay Bonuses: The bonus is explicitly tied to the value of the "Done For You" service: 4 free websites ($1600 value) for paying in full, or 2 free websites for splitting into two payments.
6. Fast Action Scholarship Explanation: The $2000 discount is explained not just as a discount, but as a strategic choice to reward action-takers (who become testimonials) and avoid costly follow-up processes.
7. Potential for Live Events/Conferences: Mention of a possible annual event in Las Vegas for networking and further learning (though not confirmed for the current year).

New Benefits (or Benefits Highlighted Differently):

1. Clearer Time Commitment Guidance: Provides specific estimates: ~20 hours to build the first site, ~4 weeks to complete the course putting in 10 hours/week.
2. Ability to Outsource Core Tasks: Offers flexibility; if time-constrained or preferring not to build, students can pay to have websites built by the internal team.
3. Structured Niche Validation: The worksheet and calls with Sarah provide a defined process to increase the likelihood of choosing a winning niche before investing build time.
4. Enhanced Personal Support: The agent's cell number offers a more immediate or personal channel for quick support needs beyond the group or scheduled calls.
5. Tax Advantage: Explicitly mentioned that the course investment is a business expense and potentially tax-deductible.

6. "Evergreen" Support Guarantee: The coaching and community support access is described as lasting forever, emphasizing long-term value.
7. Transparency on Pricing Strategy: Understanding the rationale behind the scholarship can build trust.
8. Opportunity for In-Person Networking: The potential live event offers a chance to connect with the community and leadership face-to-face.

New Features (or Features Described in More Detail):

1. Specific Call Tracking Software (CallSling): Identified by name.
 - Waived Setup Fee: Explicitly states there's normally a $500 setup fee for CallSling, which is waived for students (using a code found in the training).
 - Whisper Message Functionality: Details the feature where the client receiving the forwarded call hears a message identifying the lead source (e.g., "lead from Steel").
 - Automated Email Summaries: CallSling can automatically send daily email summaries of calls received to the client.
 - Integrated Invoicing/Payments: CallSling includes a full invoicing platform that can integrate with payment processors (Stripe, PayPal, Authorize.net) for automated billing.
 - Specific Cost: Clarified as $15 per number per month (same structure as Snaps).
2. Bulk Pricing Structure: Explicitly stated that both Snaps and CallSling have tiered bulk pricing – the cost per site/number decreases significantly as you scale up (e.g., 100 sites on Snaps drops to $8/month each).
3. Snaps Free Use Before Publishing: You can build sites completely within Snaps for free and only incur the $15/month charge when you hit the "publish" button.
4. Snaps Internal Credit System & Apps: Mentioned Snaps is evolving with internal apps (like AI similar to ChatGPT, design tools similar to Canva) that operate on a credit system, and students earn free credits monthly based on their hosting spend, potentially replacing other subscriptions.
5. Specific One-on-One Coach (Char): Introduced Char (in Arizona) as the dedicated one-on-one coach students connect with after the initial modules, highlighting his experience and flexible mentoring approach (via Messenger or video calls, tailored to the student).
Note: Sarah was mentioned in Call 3, suggesting multiple coaches or specific roles.
6. Agent Role as "Onboarding Coach": The agent defined their role specifically as the onboarding coach, available for initial support via direct message/text.

7. No Drip-Feeding Content: Explicitly stated that students get immediate access to 100% of the course content from the start, even if on a payment plan.
8. Bespoke Payment Plans: Emphasized that payment plans are not standard tiers but completely flexible and tailored ("bespoke") to the individual's financial situation.
9. 90-Day Payoff Incentive: Offered a specific financial incentive on the payment plan: pay off the full original program cost ($7860) within 90 days and receive a $1000 discount.
10. Coach Qualification Standard: Stated clearly that every coach/mentor in the program started as a student, is a success story, and actively runs their own lead generation business using the same model.

New Benefits (or Benefits Highlighted Differently):

1. Significant Cost Savings at Scale: The bulk pricing structure offers a clear path to dramatically reducing per-unit costs as the business grows.
2. Cost Control During Build Phase: The ability to build for free in Snaps until publishing allows for development without immediate financial outlay.
3. Reduced Tool Subscription Costs: The Snaps credit system and integrated apps provide potential savings on external software subscriptions (like AI writers or design tools).
4. Enhanced Credibility & Practical Experience: Knowing all coaches are successful practitioners of the exact method builds trust and ensures relevant guidance.
5. Tailored Mentorship: Char's flexible coaching style suggests personalized support that adapts to the student's needs.
6. Immediate Full Access: No waiting for content unlocks ensures students can progress at their own pace without artificial delays, regardless of payment structure.
7. Financial Flexibility: The bespoke nature of payment plans makes the program potentially accessible even with immediate cash flow constraints.
8. Motivation for Faster Repayment: The 90-day payoff incentive provides a clear financial reward for quickly becoming profitable and clearing the investment.

9.

Okay, here is the pitch segment formatted for better readability, keeping the exact wording:

The million dollar question which luckily doesn't cost a million dollars.

Um, so it's very simple, but everything that you've seen here today:

- So it's the step-by-step over-the-shoulder tutorial video showing you exactly how to build out this business so that you can start creating that passive income.
- Then you have the one-on-one coaching calls with Sarah as many as you want, you can book them whenever you want and you can talk to Sarah about whatever you want so that you're never stuck.
- Then you have the private Community where you can ask questions seven days a week, and that's so that you have access to 7,000 people in your industry who can help you share experiences, share obstacles, we're all in the same team, right?
- Then you have the two weekly calls with Jared so that we're always aware of what's happening within our industry and we can work around things like that GDP, GDT whatever it's called, we can like see like, "Oh, this is really cool guys, this is what it could mean for us," so we're just always up to everything.
- And then obviously you'll have my personal cell phone number so if you ever need anything you can call me, text me. If I don't pick up right away it's just because I'm on a call like this or dealing with my own clients, but I'll always, always get back to you.

So for everything, the course is $7,860. So it's seven thousand eight hundred and sixty dollars.

The reason why we've priced it at that is because we know that if you can come in, just land one client, and let's just say it's a thousand bucks a month, in eight months you would have made your entire investment back. Okay?

I would like to think though that in eight months you could land more than one client. So if you build out seven websites and only rent out two, you know, you would have made your money back a lot faster.

Now, what we do offer is a fast action scholarship. The scholarship is if you decide today on this call that you want to do this, we'll give you a two thousand dollar discount.

Now, there's a few reasons why we do that:

1. The reason number one is because every one of those action takers, excuse me, every one of those testimonials come in on a scholarship because they're action takers, and we want to reward action takers because they'll come in and take action and become a testimonial and they'll bring more people in. So it's a nice, nice circle for us, and then obviously you get that two thousand dollar discount. That's number one.

2. And number two is we are inundated back-to-back with calls. I don't have time to be doing follow-up because it would take away from my free time. Dan and ePay don't want to spend a fortune on another team just for follow-up, that'll cost a fortune. So they're just like, "Let's just everybody just split the difference, you take the two thousand dollar discount, we get all the action takers inside the program, we don't need to do follow-up." It's a win-win.

And that brings the investment down to just $5,860. So it's only five thousand eight hundred and sixty dollars.

(Client responds: "Understood I understood... yeah I probably will take action...")

(Agent continues, discussing payment methods and bonuses):

Yeah, absolutely. So most people put it on a credit card that way they can just pay off the credit card, right? If you have a zero percent APR card, that's always nice.

Um, we can definitely split it into payments. So, you know, those 400-dollar websites that I showed you, they're 'done for you' websites. So if you were to pay this in full, so just like the 5860 on a credit card or if you had the cash, um, then you get four of those websites for free. So basically get sixteen hundred dollars in credit to use in the 'done for you' website store.

Now, if you wanted to split this into two payments, we could also do that, then you get two free websites included. Yes.

Would that work better for you if we split it into two payments?
